

2008 Far North Conservation Film Festival

Background

The Far North Conservation Film Festival began in 2003 in celebration of National Wildlife Refuge Week. After growing and developing, the festival is in its 5th year of celebrating the diversity and sustainability of wildlife, wild places, and cultures around the world and in the far north! The Far North Conservation Film Festival is a place for filmmakers, local people, and local businesses to support media that matters in promoting global conservation.

The 2008 Festival

The 2008 Far North Conservation Film Festival will take place early November, 2008 in Fairbanks, Alaska. The event is for individuals and families and includes a highlighted film with a guest speaker as well as numerous films throughout the day.

Call for Entries

We are seeking works in all genres with a conservation or sustainability theme. Entries relating to Alaska, the arctic, or made by local people are especially encouraged, though exceptional films addressing conservation and sustainability will also be considered for the lineup.

English or English subtitles only. Although films of all lengths are accepted, shorter films may have a higher chance of being screened in the festival.

Please Include:

- Completed entry form
- 2 copies of the film on VHS Tape or DVD with title, name, and contact information written on all copies
- Associated publicity materials (optional)

Mail entries to:

Far North Conservation Film Festival
c/o Gates of the Arctic National Park
4175 Geist Road
Fairbanks, AK 99709

Please complete a separate form for each film submission.
